

Views from trail as we climbed to Gunsight Lake. Campsite crowded. More campers than campsites. Gained 500' feet during climb. Pitched camp in afternoon & fished both stream & lake - no luck. Took an hour nap then hiked to opposite end of lake to fish. Snyder went to lake despite steep terrain/heavy bush. Bland TE hung on ridge & spotted 3 mt. goats which we mistook for grizzly & proceeded to scare shit out of Snyder as result. Fished rest of night closer to camp. Cooked then crashed by 11pm.

7/7: Tough hike to Gunsight Pass across a few snowfields (max 35 yards), but incredible views. Took lunch @ pass. Marmots aggressive, snagged Snyder's shirt which began tug-of-war. Cool cabin @ pass. Mt. goat also present. To Ellen Wilson Lake by mid-afternoon for swim and debate on whether to stealth camp or not. Decided to push on for bit of hike over Lincoln Pass, then down to Sperry Campground. Chute's closed

Awesome views, but many mosquitos - so to bed by 10:30pm after dinner. ~~7/8: Up @ 6:15 A to hit trail by 7pm & hike out by 9am~~
